I. Course Description

The goal of this course is to introduce students to key moments, debates, and ideas that have shaped U.S. journalism from about the Revolutionary War period through today. Since this is a survey class, we won't be spending too much time on any one topic, time period, or analytical framework. Instead, each class will examine social, cultural, political, and technological aspects of U.S. journalism, getting a sense of its overarching history as a profession and public service. E.g., how has the press historically both depended upon and challenged the state? How has the press funded itself? Where did the idea of journalistic objectivity come from and what does it mean? How has news served both market and public interests? What legal decisions shape the press's rights and responsibilities? How does the press organize itself, and reorganize itself in light of technological innovation? At several points in the course, world-class scholars and practitioners will give guest lectures, sharing with us their experiences studying and working within the U.S. press. We'll hear first-hand accounts of what it's been like to participate in different periods of modern American journalism, examine historical archives of press coverage, and will end the semester with a review of how today's journalism is tied to historical patterns.

All readings will be provided electronically through Blackboard.

The following text is NOT REQUIRED, but I may provide excerpts of it at different points in the semester; it is highly recommended as a recent, easily digested discussion of many of the questions we'll be considering this semester:

"The News Media: What Everyone Needs to Know" by C.W. Anderson, Leonard Downie Jr., Michael Schudson. Oxford University Press. 2016.

It is available through the USC Bookstore or through an online seller like Amazon. It is available both as a physical book and as an electronic book. You can purchase either.

II. Overall Learning Objectives and Assessment

To equip journalism students with an awareness of the profession's foundational debates so that, in light of a contemporary industry in flux, they can appreciate how to both follow and challenge traditions. Through historical readings, scholarly articles, case studies, class discussions, individual and group assignments, students will engage with the practices, relationships, controversies, and technologies that will shape the future of the press.

III. Description of Assignments

- 500-word Analytical Memoir (30 points): The year is 2068. You are 50 years older than you are today and have been asked to write a 500-word essay reflecting on changes you observed in the news industry during your career. What changes in the journalism profession and news industry did you witness over the course of your career, what skills did you need to be successful, and what controversies remained unchanged from 2016? Make sure the memo is reflective and analytical. This is NOT simply a biography of your career or the story of what kind of career you would like to have. Due at the beginning of class on Tuesday, January 23. Bring a paper copy and upload to Blackboard by the beginning of class.
- Examinations (220 points total):
 - Midterm Exam [110 points]. In-class on Thursday, March 8. The exam will be open-book and open-notes – i.e., you can use any of the class readings or notes you take. I won't be asking very many factual questions. E.g., don't expect questions asking what date something happened, or the name of some particular journalist or newspaper. Instead I'll ask you to synthesize and work with concepts from the readings and class discussions. You are responsible for all assigned readings, all in-class content (including guest lectures), but you are not responsible for 'recommended' readings. You'll have the entire class period to complete the exam. The format will be a mix of true-false, multiple choice, and short answer.
 - Final Exam [110 points]. During the final exam period as determined by the university on Tuesday, May 8 (see the official university schedule at <http://classes.usc.edu/term-20181/finals/>). Like the midterm exam, the final exam is open-book and open-notes, and will ask you to work with concepts, not repeat facts or dates. The exam will only cover material since the midterm exam (i.e., the final exam is not cumulative from the beginning of the course). Like the midterm, you are responsible for all assigned readings, all in-class content (including guest lectures), but you are not responsible for any 'recommended' readings. Like the midterm exam, the format will be a mix of true-false, multiple choice, and short answer.
- Archive Project (75 points): You'll work either alone or a team of 2 (your choice) to create a "comparative media frame archive analysis" of changes in journalistic styles and language across two different time periods and multiple sources. You'll work with USC newspaper archives (<http://libguides.usc.edu/jour201>) to build a timeline of your analysis. The final project is due April 24. More information will be given on this assignment as the semester progresses.
- Pop Quizzes (75 points total): Four (4) times during the semester, I'll give a pop quiz at the beginning of class. They will be multiple-choice / true-false format, will not be announced beforehand, will be closed-book and closed-notes, and should take about 5-10 minutes to complete. They will only cover the required readings for that day. They'll be easy and straight-forward, a quick check that you've done the readings and are prepared to participate in that day's class discussion. The lowest quiz will be dropped – i.e., only your top 3 will be counted. Each quiz will be graded out of 25 points for a maximum point total of 75.
- Reflections (100 points total): Twice during the semester, you'll submit short (approximately 750 words) reflections. They're intended to let you reflect on some aspect of the course. Each reflection will be graded out of 50 points. The topics for each reflection will be announced at least two weeks in advance and are due on these dates (also indicated in the weekly schedule):
 - Reflection #1: February 22 (50 points)
 - Reflection #2: April 5 (50 points)

IV. Grading

a. Breakdown of Grade

Assignment	Due	Points	Grade %
Analytical Memoir	January 23	30	6
Midterm Exam	March 8 (in class)	110	22
Final Exam	May 8	110	22
Archive Project	April 24	75	15
Pop Quizzes (4 x 25 points each, lowest quiz dropped)	not announced	75	15
Reflections (2 x 50 points each)	February 22 April 5	100	20
TOTAL		500	100%

b. Grading Scale

TOTAL POSSIBLE POINTS: 500 points
Final grades will be assigned using these point ranges:
467-500 = A	450-466 = A-
433-449 = B+	416-432 = B	400-415 = B-
384-399 = C+	367-383 = C	350-366 = C-
333-349 = D+	316-332 = D	300-315 = D-
299 and below = F

c. Grading Standards

All assignments will be judged for their sophistication, eloquence, professionalism, and command of relevant concepts.

“A” assignments show an eloquent mastery of ideas and their application; are completely free of grammatical and logical errors; demonstrate creativity, rigor, and sophisticated thinking; speak to an audience in a clear and thoughtful manner; and represent the very best of the class’s work.

“B” assignments show a good use of concepts; employ relevant examples; contain some grammatical errors and logical problems; and represent work that adequately communicates a student’s point of view.

“C” assignments show a minimally adequate use of concepts; lack relevant examples; have many grammatical errors and serious logical limitations; and demonstrate work that is not well respected in professional or scholarly settings.

“D” assignments are barely adequate application of concepts; require excessive rewriting and lack compelling examples; have many errors and have significant flaws in logic; and represent work that requires significant improvement.

“F” assignments fail to meet the major assignment criteria, are late, rife with grammatical or logical errors, and generally do not meet the standards of quality USC Annenberg students are expected to meet.

The following are some other circumstances that could warrant a grade of “F” and potential USC/Annenberg disciplinary action:

- Making up quotes or any other information.
- Plagiarizing part or all of any material.
- Missing a deadline.
- Collaborating in a way expressly forbidden by the assignment.

V. Assignment Submission Policy

All assignments are due in hard-copy and uploaded to Blackboard at the beginning of class.

Late Policy: Unless there is a valid medical/family/personal reason and arrangements have been made with the instructor before an assignment’s due date, late assignments will be deducted one partial letter grade per 24 hours late. E.g., an assignment handed in 24 hours late has a maximum possible grade of A-minus, 48 hours late, B-plus, etc. No assignment will be accepted more than 72 hours past the due date, unless discussed with the instructor before the original due date.

There will be no make-up exams. Students will receive a zero on a missed exam, unless all three of these things are true:

- 1) You have valid and documented medical or personal reason for missing the exam;
- 2) You have communicated this reason to the instructor and provided me with appropriate documentation;
- 3) I have confirmed with you—before the date of the exam—that you have permission to miss the exam.

There will be no make-up pop quizzes.

VI. Required Readings and Supplementary Materials

All readings will be provided electronically through the class Blackboard site. There are no required materials or books to buy. Class library guide: <http://libguides.usc.edu/jour201>

Recommended Subscriptions: Although I won’t be evaluating you on their contents, I strongly recommend that you subscribe to these two email lists and listen to this podcast every week (all free):

- Harvard’s Nieman Journalism Lab (daily email):
<http://www.niemanlab.org/subscribe/>
- Pew Research’s Journalism Project (daily email):
<http://www.journalism.org/> → submit email address under ‘Get the Daily Briefing’ in the top-right corner of the page
- On The Media (weekly podcast)
<http://www.onthemedialab.org/>

You should at least skim headlines, get a sense of the topics being covered, and think about how these contemporary topics relate to class themes. The two lists are leading sources of news about the news industry—regularly read by practicing journalists and news industry analysts—and the podcast is one of the best popular discussions of contemporary and historical issues in news media. Following these should get you in the habit not only of reading news, but thinking about where news comes from.

VII. Laptop Policy

All undergraduate and graduate Annenberg majors and minors are required to have a PC or Apple laptop that can be used in Annenberg classes. Please refer to the Annenberg Virtual Commons for more information. To connect to USC's Secure Wireless network, please visit USC's Information Technology Services website.

Your phone must be switched off during class and I will ask you to turn it off or leave class if I see you using it. You should bring your laptop to class with you every day but, unless I ask you to bring it out for an in-class exercise, laptops are NOT allowed to be used during class. Research shows that using phones or laptops in class for things other than class work harms your learning and that of those around you.

VIII. Course Schedule: A Weekly Breakdown

Be advised that this syllabus is subject to change - and probably will change - based on the progress of the class, news events, and/or guest speaker availability. Each week has both required and recommended reading. You are officially only responsible for the REQUIRED readings for pop quizzes and exams.

A note on the readings and podcasts: Each class will discuss—but not summarize—the readings and podcasts. It's expected that you'll come to class having done the readings and listened to the podcasts, prepared to use them in our discussions. Readings and podcasts marked 'recommended' are not required, and you're not responsible for them on the exams. They're listed in order to give you an idea of materials that I might cover in a lecture or explain in class. I usually list the readings and podcasts in the order in which I think they should be done.

Please be sure to be active and reflective both when reading the articles and listening to the podcasts: Note ideas that you think are important, write down questions you have, state what you think are the big 'take away' points, and be mindful not to get bogged down in details that aren't essential to the core of the reading or podcast.

The 'thought questions' listed for each class are intended to offer signposts to help you read/listen: you might think about them before you read/listen (preparing your focus) or you might think about them after you read/listen (helping you reflect and prepare for the class discussion). They're meant to provoke thoughts and not ask you to repeat facts or dates – so don't be surprised if some of these questions show up on the midterm and final exams! 😊

Week #1: Tuesday, January 9

topics and projects reoccur? What does a history of data journalism reveal about the dominant epistemologies of journalism in any given era? Where does data come from, and how are these origins described by journalists? What's the difference between showing data and telling a story? How much of journalism's work should a news audience be invited—or expected—to do?

Week #15: Thursday, April 26

COURSE WRAP-UP:

TYING TOGETHER THEMES, IDENTIFYING WAYS TO CONTINUE LEARNING, FINAL EXAM REVIEW

FINAL EXAM: Tuesday, May 8, 8-10 a.m.

As determined by the official university schedule: <http://classes.usc.edu/term-20181/finals/>

IX. Additional Policies and Procedures

A note on class communication: Email is the best way to communicate with me. I'll generally answer your email within about 24 hours, but I usually don't answer email on weekends or after 7pm on weekdays. If it's urgent (e.g., an emergency that will prevent you from completing an assignment or taking an exam), please mark the subject line 'urgent'. If you have a longer question that would be best addressed in a conversation, please visit my office hours or email me to set up an appointment to talk. Also, please be sure to make friends with your fellow students – they're often your best first point of contact to find out what happened if you missed a class. I can't summarize whole classes either in person or via email so please be sure to have a few friends you can borrow notes from. Finally, a large class like this works best if everyone has done the reading ahead of time and you come to class with questions. I love it when students ask questions and try to make even large classes as conversational and interactive as possible – please always feel free to speak up!

Internships

The value of professional internships as part of the overall educational experience of our students has long been recognized by the School of Journalism. Accordingly, while internships are not required for successful completion of this course, any student enrolled in this course that undertakes and completes an approved, non-paid internship during this semester shall earn academic extra credit herein of an amount equal to 1 percent of the total available semester points for this course. To receive instructor approval, a student must request an internship letter from the Annenberg Career Development Office and bring it to the instructor to sign by the end of the third week of classes. The student must submit the signed letter to the media organization, along with the evaluation form provided by the Career Development Office. The form should be filled out by the intern supervisor and returned to the instructor at the end of the semester. No credit will be given if an evaluation form is not turned into the instructor by the last day of class. Note: The internship must be unpaid and can only be applied to one journalism class.

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

a. Academic Conduct

Plagiarism

Presenting someone else's ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words - is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Section 11, Behavior Violating University Standards <https://scampus.usc.edu/b/11-00-behavior-violating-university-standards-and-appropriate-sanctions/>. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, <http://policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct/>.

USC School of Journalism Policy on Academic Integrity

The following is the USC Annenberg School of Journalism's policy on academic integrity and repeated in the syllabus for every course in the school:

"Since its founding, the USC School of Journalism has maintained a commitment to the highest standards of ethical conduct and academic excellence. Any student found plagiarizing, fabricating, cheating on examinations, and/or purchasing papers or other assignments faces sanctions ranging from an 'F' on the assignment to dismissal from the School of Journalism. All academic integrity violations will be reported to the office of Student Judicial Affairs & Community Standards (SJACS), as per university policy, as well as journalism school administrators.”

In addition, it is assumed that the work you submit for this course is work you have produced entirely by yourself, and has not been previously produced by you for submission in another course or Learning Lab, without approval of the instructor.

X. About Your Instructors

Mike Ananny is an Assistant Professor at the University of Southern California’s Annenberg School for Communication & Journalism, and an Affiliated Faculty with USC’s Science, Technology and Society research cluster. He studies the public significance and sociotechnical dynamics of networked news systems. He has held fellowships and scholarships with Harvard's Berkman Center for Internet & Society, Stanford's Center on Philanthropy and Civil Society, the Pierre Elliott Trudeau Foundation, the LEGO Corporation, and Interval Research. He was a founding member of Media Lab Europe's research staff, a postdoctoral scholar with Microsoft Research's Social Media Collective, and has worked or consulted for LEGO, Mattel, and Nortel Networks. His PhD is from Stanford University (Communication), SM from the MIT Media Lab (Media Arts & Sciences), and BSc from the University of Toronto (Human Biology & Computer Science). He has published in a variety of venues including Digital Journalism, Critical Studies in Media Communication, International Journal of Communication, the Journal of Computer-Mediated Communication, American Behavioral Scientist, Science, Technology & Human Values, New Media & Society, and Television & New Media. He is author of the book Networked Press Freedom: Creating Infrastructures for a Public Right to Hear (MIT Press, 2018).

Stephany Rodas is a 2nd-year graduate student in the Strategic Public Relations program at USC Annenberg. Throughout her time here, she has interned for several companies, both in-house and agency including: LAGRANT Communications, The Wonderful Company, Burson-Marsteller and most recently NBCUniversal. She received her B.A. from the University of California, Berkeley in Media Studies and has worked full-time across education and advertising. Her ultimate goal is to fuse public relations with her passion for corporate social responsibility to bring equal access to resources among under-served communities.
